

“By Wicked Hands or By The Lamb”

If what I've got I got by wicked hands, then what have I gained...

Lord what have I gained?
For I have not gained You, I have not gained what none can earn but only love deep within can burn. For none can take captive that which by it's own heart will remain with me. Let Him fly and flying so free I will see His heart remains with me when I respond as a Bride, one that desires the riches of His side.

Come away, O my soul, from these wicked bandits in me. They would rob and steal and take captive unto me that which only love can truly give. And when love gives Himself to me, then by Himself I will be free. A mystery that none can change. The way of love, a war upon none can wage.

And so again the Lamb alone wins, and those who choose to stand with Him. And these on His side will stand as His Bride having nothing to save but only by Christ, they have gained all things and eternal life.
