

The Spirit Of Communication

Dear Friends!

Although we are not meeting this Monday because some of us will be on an outreach into Mexico, I still wanted to send a quick message just to stay in touch.

The Lord has been sharing with my heart concerning “communication”. A kind look, a tender touch, arms that embrace in times of need... all these things can communicate Christ and express His love in ways words never could. Some people need a podium to share Christ, but our podium can be the simple needs of those around us. The way we express the care of Christ to them says more than a thousand words.

Sometimes it can be easy to get all “tripped up” on trying to verbalize something you want someone else to understand. The frustration of not being able to “say it right” can lead to division and alienation from those you love. Maybe the heart behind what we are trying to say can be demonstrated even before the words come. Then, when the words do come, they will be backed up by the love and care you hoped they’d know was in your heart.

May we constantly communicate Christ in ways beyond words. We can be like a sweet savor offering, always releasing the sweetness of Christ everywhere we go. I know this is my constant need and prayer. Maybe throughout this week we can just pray for each other in this way. How wonderful to know that many women are praying for you.

May God fill you and comfort you.
